NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—James Meeker, 35, was sentenced today to 10 years in prison for having improper relations with 12-year-old Alice Mathers whose body was found in a Fraser Valley gravel pit near Mission June 10.

James Meeker pleaded guilty to unlawfully having intercourse with the little Mission school girl.

Evidence during the murder trial showed the Meeker brothers forced her into their car as she was walking home along the highway and took her to the gravel pit where Kenneth Meeker admitted he strangled her to death.

Glass In Grain 'Not Sabotage'

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russian authorities do not believe that the shipment of Canadian grain contaminated with glass to Russia was an act of sabotage. It was reliably learned here today.

A senior Russian expert, who did not want to be named, told a questioner: "We do not think that this action was deliberate."

He said that some holds in about eight ships carrying Canadian grain were affected.

Glass found there consisted of "broken and unbroken bottles apparently used by stevedores in Canada."

The official said the total figure of grain affected was not yet known here, but the amount should be established within a few days.

(Canadian officials have said that about 3,000,000 bushels out of 230,000,000 bushels in the total order, were affected.)

Sir Alec Now Optimistic For Relations With Soviet

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said here today he is "fairly convinced" Britain is approaching a period of "more constructive relations" with Russia. He also told a luncheon given in his honor by the parliamentary press gallery that Communist China would have its own nuclear weapon "in a fairly short time."

Douglas-Home said he did not base his forecast about more constructive relations with the Soviet Union on the economic difficulties it faced or its needs.

"Rather I risk it on the Soviet leaders' appreciation of the devastation brought by the nuclear bomb and the effect of China on the Soviet Union border which in a fairly short time will have nuclear weapons itself."

"An ideological war on two fronts would be bad enough, but to face the prospect of physical confrontation on two fronts would be nearly unthinkable," he added.

Princess Margaret's child will be seventh in line of succession. If it is a boy he will be known as "the honorable" (Christian name) Armstrong-Jones.

If it is a girl, she will be known as "Lady Armstrong-Jones."

Today's announcement means that 1964 will be a bumper year for royal babies.

Twelve Air Crash Victims Identified Out Of 118 Total

STY. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (CP)—Trans-Canada Airline officials said that by mid-morning today the remains of about 12 of the 118 victims of Friday's DC-8 crash had been identified.

Temperatures well below freezing hindered workers in this Laurentian foothills community as they carried out their grim task. The victims were identified largely through jewelry or other personal belongings.

A spokesman for TCA said it is hoped some kind of memorial services can be arranged to be held in both the Montreal and Toronto districts since most of the victims were from these areas.

Police Questioning Friends After TV Beauty Strangled

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Homicide officers worked in teams today to question Karyn Kucipnet's host of friends, hopeful of finding some lead to the stranger of the vivacious actress.

Miss Kucipnet, 22, a petite brunette who had appeared in a number of top television shows, was found Saturday night in her modest apartment. The body was nude and lay face down on a couch.

The actress was the only daughter of Irv Kucipnet, a Chicago newspaper columnist and television moderator.

Among those questioned was Andrew Prince, 27, a television actor identified as Miss Kucipnet's steady boyfriend until a recent disagreement caused them to break up.

Prime, a co-star of the Wide Country series, told investigators he knew nothing of the slay-ing but had telephoned Karyn twice Wednesday night to discuss their differences.

Investigators said he may have been the last person to hear her voice when he placed his second call about midnight. Officers believe the slaying took place in the early hours Thursday.

Also questioned were two friends of Prince—Edward S. Rubin, 22, a free lance writer, and actor Robert F. Hathaway, 24. Rubin and Hathaway told detectives they watched television in the victim's apartment Wednesday night. They said Miss Kucipnet retired about 11:15 and they left a short time later, locking the door.

Detectives said the actress' body lay undiscovered—possibly for three days—until actor Mark Goddard and his wife, Marcia, 25, visited the apartment Saturday night.

Up, Down and Then Up Stock Exchange Trend

By IAN MCKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Up, down and up again. This was the rather startling progress of North American stock markets generally this week. Tuesday's record gain on the New York market reverberated across the continent as orders to buy flooded brokers' offices. Even the most optimistic had been bracing themselves for a sharp decline as markets opened for the first time since President Kennedy's assassination.

Trading had been suspended on all North American markets Nov. 22 as the news broke of the president's death. A major slump was narrowly averted, but apparently investors reconsidered over the following three days and what threatened to be a rout turned out to be a resounding vote of confidence in President Lyndon Johnson.

Indonesia Terror Raids Seen As Mounting On Malaysia

BRUNEI (AP) — A high British military officer says terrorists based in Indonesian Borneo undoubtedly are planning more and heavier raids on East Malaysia. The officer, stationed at the Brunei headquarters of British North Borneo command, said he expects terrorist activity to spread along the 600-mile border between Indonesia and the Malaysian states of Sabah and Sarawak, which surround Brunei.

"Undoubtedly things will get worse," the officer said. "There will be more incidents as the terrorists try to bully the border people into shifting their allegiance from the Malaysian government." In the last seven months, terrorist attacks have been confined to Sarawak. But some sources predict Sabah (North Borneo) soon may be a trouble spot. Indonesian commandos are reported in place on Sabah Island, just off the east coast and shared by Malaysia and Indonesia.

Authoritative sources report some Indonesians working in Sabah have set up jungle training camps for guerrillas. The British military official said there is conclusive proof that Indonesia is behind some of the attacks. He said some of the attacks were led by Indonesian regular army officers and that one Indonesian commando officer was killed on Sabah while on a reconnaissance patrol.

Indonesia's present aim, the British said, is to weaken the will of the border tribes in Sarawak and Sabah and to encourage dissidents in the states in the hope they will revolt. Neither has happened, he said. A government source in Sarawak said a third Indonesian aim is to create the impression that the peoples of Sabah and Sarawak were in revolt against the formation of Malaysia. The British have adopted a strongly systematic destruction of terrorist bands in an effort to destroy the morale of the Indonesian-based guerrillas.

Workers Continue To Search For Victims Of DC-8F Crash

STE. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (CP) — Zero team members frantically searched for victims of the crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8F and its 111 passengers and crew.

Freezing weather hampered recovery operations and turned the marshy fields into a frozen graveyard for a Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8F and its 111 passengers and crew.

Investigating teams under the direction of the department of transport, combed the shattered wreckage during the weekend for clues to determine why the sleek jetliner tumbled from the sky and exploded on impact four minutes after taking off Friday night from Montreal's Dorval Airport for Toronto.

The grim remains of Canadian and other passengers, luggage and other parts of the wreckage were scattered over a wide area.

The crash of the DC-8F, which was carrying 111 passengers and crew, was the deadliest air disaster in Canadian history. The plane, which was carrying 111 passengers and crew, was the deadliest air disaster in Canadian history.

Officials have been considering a mass burial for the victims because of their condition in the wreckage. "For at least four days after the crash, the possibility of identification was not a consideration," said a spokesman.

Officials have been considering a mass burial for the victims because of their condition in the wreckage. "For at least four days after the crash, the possibility of identification was not a consideration," said a spokesman.

The investigation is expected to take several weeks. The DC-8F, a freight variation of the DC-8, is in wide use in the United States and is relatively new. TCA has four of the $7,000,000 planes, two of which have crashed since delivery in February. The other mishap occurred at London Nov. 6 when the jet failed to get off the runway and ploughed into a field, but without serious injury.

TCA President Gordon McGregor said there is no connection between the two accidents.

Johnson Loses Little Time In Welding Political Front

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is losing no time welding the labor-Negro-liberal political coalition he needs behind him for any successful bid for election next year.

The new president already has enlisted organized labor in his cause by numerous calls to union leaders asking for their help.

Negro leaders as Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, have been brought into consultation. Wilkins' reaction after a White House visit was that he had "very great faith" in Johnson's stand on civil rights.

Whitney Young, executive director of the National Urban League, is a White House caller today. Democratic liberals such as Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota have rallied to Johnson's side. The president has asked Kennedy's liberal advisers, notably Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., to stay on.

Most observers believe Johnson will adopt the Kennedy administration's strategy for the 1964 campaign of concentrating on the populous industrial states while trying to hold on to at least part of the South.

There will be differences, of course, because Kennedy was much more popular in the industrial states than Johnson, who in turn was more popular in the South.

But no one close to him believes that Johnson is going to soften the vigorous stand he has taken for civil rights legislation and he may be considerably less popular in the South next November than he is today.

While he was vice-president, Johnson said the administration was convinced "that it is possible to lower world tensions without lowering our guard."

Spending by Candidates Set for Probe Next Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The agitation in favor of a firm check on campaign spending by candidates for Parliament may flower into a full-scale inquiry early next year.

There are indications that the Commons elections committee may be asked at the next session to study the problem and recommend whether expense limits are desirable and whether the public should pay part of all election expenses of all candidates.

For years neither the candidates nor the general public seemed to care about the sometimes sizable sums spent on election campaigns. But the experience of four federal elections in six years—the last two only 10 months apart—gave candidates and elected members little time to pay off election expenses which sometimes ran into five figures.

Consequently a lot more is being heard here about limiting expenses—as in Britain and in Quebec provincial elections—and about payment of election expenses from the public purse as an effective check on election costs.

WANT VIEWS
The matter was touched on last week by the elections committee when by a close vote it agreed to call Mr. Pearson to the House to discuss the problem.

Some of the preparatory material has been assembled. It includes a list of the British and Canadian legislation on election expenses and a list of the election expenses of the Commons members.

The Commons law has attracted attention of the committee since it also provides for payments to the House of Commons for election expenses.

SET LIMIT
In Quebec general elections, political parties are limited to a maximum of 25 cents an elector in ridings where they have candidates. Candidates themselves face limits of 60 cents an elector up to 10,000, plus 50 cents for the second 10,000 plus 40 cents for all over 20,000.

Machinery is provided for the candidates' agents to recover about one-quarter of these sums from the public purse.

For almost three years this office kept Johnson informed about foreign policy issues, showing him the important diplomatic cables and briefing him on all developments.

Furthermore, it was Rusk who persuaded Johnson to make frequent trips to other continents, including such a memorable one as the visit to West Berlin almost immediately after the Communists built the wall dividing the city.

Rusk, officials said, is probably somewhat more at ease with Johnson than he was with Kennedy.

someone nominated by him, to give the government's views on providing public funds for election expenses of candidates.

The opposition to this proposal would be based entirely on objections to the idea of the public paying for the election of its representatives.

Several members felt the proposal to call Mr. Pearson was premature.

They argue privately that the committee has enough to do now with the regular post-election review of the Election Act to devote enough time to the election expenses question. They want to see changes in the act recommended by the committee and then to call Mr. Pearson to the House to discuss the problem.

Informal discussions have been going on among government supporters aimed at giving the elections committee the best possible view of the election expenses question.

Some of the preparatory material has been assembled. It includes a list of the British and Canadian legislation on election expenses and a list of the election expenses of the Commons members.

The Commons law has attracted attention of the committee since it also provides for payments to the House of Commons for election expenses.

SET LIMIT
In Quebec general elections, political parties are limited to a maximum of 25 cents an elector in ridings where they have candidates. Candidates themselves face limits of 60 cents an elector up to 10,000, plus 50 cents for the second 10,000 plus 40 cents for all over 20,000.

Machinery is provided for the candidates' agents to recover about one-quarter of these sums from the public purse.

"Our export market should be close to five million pounds with Kelowna, B.C. Atkinson, had 85 per cent of this going to the U.K. This market has been depressed over the past four years. In 1960 our exports were the B.C. Department of Agriculture 15,000 pounds, this year they are, on 'Your Limited Factor,' said Mr. King.

1963 Summer School Report Made This Week

Kelowna school board gave vital help and this contributed to the success of summer school was termed a success in a brief presentation by Mr. H. Joyce, director of summer school to F. J. Orme, CAPABLE superintendent of schools.

"Very capable teachers were employed and the registration decided success if one may process worked well. Traditional judges by the enrollment, test re-methods of instruction, were adults, comments of the summer school and a comprehensive school staff, parents and pupils," said Mr. Joyce.

"The smaller than normal classes allowed the at mid term and a final report teachers time to give much made was forwarded to the student by the respective principals. It was felt imperative that the standards of achievement of summer school be equal to those of a regular session."

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

WITH BETHEL STEELE

Sponsored by the Rotary Club, the Canadian Opera Company paid its yearly visit to Kelowna Saturday night in Mozart's opera bouffe Così fan tutte or in English "Women Are Like That."

"Opera bouffe is a comic opera much lighter in character than opera comique. Compared to opera comique, opera bouffe has no spoken dialogue but uses a pattering of recitative which is supported by chords."

"Its main stress is on duets, trios, quartets, sextets and the ensemble. Airs are closer to popular song than is permissible in opera seria. Opera bouffe under Mozart's hand developed a wonderful symphonic type of writing for both voice and orchestra."

"Because we are considered 'out of the way' there was no attempt made to make use of an orchestra. We grant that budgets can interfere with bringing an orchestra but Mr. Geller-Torrell states in his program preface that local orchestras are used wherever standards warrant such use."

"Our Okanagan Symphony must be capable of playing Mozart since a Mozart symphony is in rehearsal at the present moment."

"The ideal of the Canadian Opera Company is to bring live opera to Canada's hinterland and to build up knowledgeable listening audience."

"Opera is not complete without its orchestral accompaniment and Mozart particularly demands its use for a complete realization of musical coloration and pointing up of comedy or dramatic moments. The Royal Winnipeg Ballet brought its own orchestra."

"Mozart's music for this frothy bit of play acting is lovely in its melody and fresh transparency of comic mood. What a joy the Kelowna audience did not hear the humor of Mozart's bassoons or his art of underlining a vocal line with the horns."

"If Canada Council requires touring by the Canadian Opera Company as a part of the return for its yearly grants then it is up to the people of Canada's so-called hinterland to demand first string casts for every performance and a true representation of the music involved."

"Saturday night's performance of Così fan tutte was anything but the company's best. Certainly the settings were clever but they lacked color. The costumes were in some cases badly soiled and poorly fitted."

"Jan Rubes as Don Alfonso and Kathryn Newman as Desdemona were the only members of the cast who sang within the framework of Mozart's music."

"This music has class and a shimmering perfection of phrase and melody line. It is light and happy music and never needs to be belabored to make itself heard."

"Miss Sawchuk sang consistently flat and Miss Meadows was out of context in this music with her heavy soprano."

"Canada Council and the Canadian Opera Company would do well to investigate the musical background of those communities the company visits."

"Last year's Kelowna production 'The King and I' made a sad travesty of 'Women Are Like That' since one could not compare the polish and musical perfection of the Kelowna production with the careless effort on the part of the Canadian Opera Company."

Indian Bands Fail To Agree

The steering committee of the Westbank Indian Band met over the weekend with Chief Ernest Brown and councilors of the Okanagan Band at Vernon.

The meeting was held in the Catholic church hall at Westbank and some 40 Westbank band members as observers.

"We had asked for compensation for timber rights because over the years we have always paid our part for the upkeep of the timber ranges which have never been a source of income to us."

"No decision was reached," said Mrs. Mary Hill, spokeswoman for the Westbank committee.

"Chief Brower and his six councilors 'walked out' after learning our demands and said he was washing his hands of the matter."

"No agreement could be reached with this attitude and we expected to hold negotiations and Chief Brower suggested that we drop the idea of separation and remain with the Vernon band as long as no agreements could be found."

"We have yet to form the council of our band and we expect to hold nominations and elections in the near future," said Mrs. Hill.

Auto Insurance Hike Coming But Total Amount Not Decided

Kelowna insurance firms commenting on news reports that the Canadian Underwriters' Association will increase car insurance rates as much as 15 per cent in the interior said exact increases will not be known until Jan. 1.

"It is not surprising considering the number of automobile accidents we have had in Kelowna recently," said one insurance firm. Another said he did not believe the hike would amount to 15 per cent here.

One salesman for a Kelowna firm said they had been notified increases could be expected. They could not say exactly what it would amount to until the new credit rates arrive.

One firm contacted for comments said one of their Vancouver offices said two weeks ago there could be a possible increase of 10 per cent for the Okanagan. "Our greater traffic load, the increased tourism is causing more accidents and this is reflected in police reports," said one Kelowna firm.

In Ontario, he said, the increase came in mid-summer, an overall 10 per cent.

R. D. Knox, director of the B.C. Insurance Agents' Association representing central Okanagan Valley, said the accident free driver should notice very little difference in the cost of what it would amount to until the new credit rates arrive.

"The committee met two weeks ago and plans were laid to get the project underway."

"At Monday's meeting a board of trustees will be elected to start to develop the project, also a nominating committee will be formed in preparation of election of officers at another public meeting on January 15, 1964," said Mr. Green.

Many Peachland Ratepayers Attend Stewardship Meeting

PEACHLAND — The annual stewardship meeting held on Friday, November 29, in the municipal hall was attended by a large number of ratepayers.

Reports covering operations for 1963, in the various departments, were given by the Mayor, members of the council, school trustee, D. A. K. Foks, South Okanagan Health Unit representative, F. Ivor Jackson and the Okanagan Regional Library representative, Mrs. C. W. Aitkens.

Councillors

Councillor Estro, chairman of roads, revealed the work done on roads during the year, and made the suggestion that in the future, snow should be done on the unpaved roads, in the summer to keep the dust off fruit trees.

Councillor Clements, chairman of cemetery, sanitation and sidewalks, felt sidewalks were important in a community but that a lot of work was done in all departments.

Councillor Teal, chairman of domestic water and volunteer fire department, reported the problems which had, and still are, confronting the automatic pumping system of the domestic water department, and also the difficulties encountered with the volunteer fire department.

Reeve Whinton, in his summary of work accomplished, elaborated on Mr. Teal's problem, reporting the water department is overextended, at present, but felt the system would eventually stand on its own feet.

He reported at a meeting of the volunteer fire department, Desmond Carleton, had been elected fire chief, with two captains, to assist him, D. A. K. Foks and Arthur Kopp.

The Reeve emphasized that the municipality had gone into winter works quite extensively — had supported the Junior College on the westside — dealt with the extension of the post office and rural mail delivery — the council is working on a cemetery, with a view to a perpetual care, as recommended by the Public Utilities Commission and that next Wednesday he will attend a meeting in Kelowna, dealing with a hospital district.

Varied Selection Of New Books Added To Library Shelves

A wide selection of new books added to the Okanagan regional library, Kelowna branch, during the past two weeks.

Faces From The Fire by I. C. Mosley is a stirring account of Sir Archibald McIndoe and his fight to repair the terrible war wounds sustained by members of the armed forces. His hospital for treating patients by means of plastic surgery is world famous.

Of interest to all members of the Okanagan swim team and those who advocate a heated pool here is E. Carille's On Swimming. It is a detailed study of training methods. The author is an Australian who became coach to the famous Dutch Olympic swimmers.

Some Tourist Facilities Need The Whip — Now

Chamber of commerce president Tommy McLaughlin took our news department to task for an error Friday, and, rightly so.

People who do nothing, never make mistakes, and the converse is also true.

Mr. McLaughlin accused us of sensationalism in the headline that read "City Sanitation Appalling for Tourists Says C. C." He said we were trying to sell newspapers. Had we done it to sell newspapers, we would have put it on the front page, where the buyer could see it, not on Page Three.

Our error started in the first writing of the story. It read, "Kelowna and district tourist facilities were described as appalling Wednesday at the fourth quarterly meeting of the South Okanagan Union Board of Health."

Had the reporter not put the word "and" in we would have been on the correct freeway.

As Mr. McLaughlin said, he was speaking of Kelowna district tourist facilities that did not measure up.

He said, in our office Friday, we should have toned down the story, because it did no good for the tourist business, and furthermore, motel operators in the area would be angered.

We disagree. This time of year is the exact time people in responsible positions, such as the chamber, should raise their voices in attempting to right wrongs in the tourist field.

Now is the time to do something about it, not when the tourists are in our midst. If there was no need for correction, Mr. McLaughlin would not have received the letter, or letters, he was talking about.

In addition to that, if it should so happen that a disgruntled tourist saw our story, they would be overjoyed to see that someone was trying to correct the wrong they had run into in the past years.

No one can correct anything by viewing it silently, and then stealing quietly away. Laws often need changing, or in this case, we need the ones that have been rescinded.

Dr. D. A. Clarke, medical health officer, is much annoyed at many tourist areas in his district. At the same time he is powerless to do anything about it, for the regulations that would help him protect the health of tourists, no longer exist.

Those regulations were rescinded because he had not the staff to enforce them.

There are two things needed. The regulations must be brought back, and Dr. Clarke must be given personnel to enforce them.

Now is the time for the chamber of commerce, and its hard working visitor and convention committee, to go ahead with its protest, and they should keep it up, with community backing, until they are satisfied regulations exist and they can be enforced.

Certainly there are a large number of top-grade tourist accommodation places in Kelowna. It would behoove those proprietors to get firmly behind the chamber in its present quest.

We apologize to all Kelowna for our error, both in the lead of the story and in the headline.

At the same time, we exhort the chamber to continue speaking up when it thinks it should.

AS THE VOTING AGE COMES PLUNGING DOWN

Ritual Of Smoking On Trial As Fear Of Cancer Grows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ritual is simple and personal. You reach for a cigarette and light it up. The average United States smoker does this some 20 times a day—well over 7,000 times a year, at an annual cost of about $100.

Now this ritual is on trial. Ten medical and statistical experts—chosen for their lack of bias on the issue—are weighing evidence that smoking is or is not harmful to health.

This jury, gathered by the federal government, will deliver its verdict in coming days. The jury will make no recommendations. It will merely evaluate the scientific data to date to measure the risk to health—if there is one.

To many observers there seems little doubt that the panel will indict smoking as harmful in a number of areas—from impaired lung function to heart and artery disease.

This view is based on a body of statistical data which certain researchers say shows shortened lives for smokers, increased risks of cardiovascular disease and lung cancer, and poorer lung function.

Not all of the data has supporting "hard" evidence. There have been findings of changes in the linings of the bronchial tubes of smokers—and these changes have been called pre-cancerous. There have been findings of higher cholesterol levels in smokers. There have been findings of cancer-causing chemicals in tobacco smoke.

The bits and pieces are many. The federal panel digested more than 7,000 scientific reports on the effects of tobacco to set forth its own conclusions.

To the evidence condemning tobacco, the tobacco industry and its research committee offers this line of argument: There is no direct proof of any of the charges. The body of the evidence is statistical.

There are too many other factors that can enter into a complex disease like lung cancer to assume that smoking has any more connection than, say, air pollution.

For example, Dr. Robert C. Hockett of the tobacco industry research committee has rejected flatly the "hypotheses" that smoking caused any of the varieties of ill health.

American smokers spend more than $7,500,000,000 a year for tobacco products. Various governments, state, local and federal, collect $2,200,000,000 in tobacco taxes.

BIG BUSINESS
It is a big business built on a big habit.

What would an adverse report by the federal panel do?

Undoubtedly there would be an immediate — although perhaps temporary — drop in tobacco sales. But considering the remarkable resiliency of the tobacco industry over the years, snapping back from had publicity and public disfavors, there might be a question as to how long it would last.

But such a report could have important secondary effects. It could strengthen the Federal Trade Commission's case for the regulation of tobacco advertisements.

It could provide a new avenue in the courts for persons seeking damages against tobacco companies on charges that smoking was bad for health—and not so labelled by the tobacco companies.

Then, also of concern are tobacco stocks on the stock market, and employment in tobacco towns. These are all problems in the minds of government officials, awaiting the scientific verdict.

Speed Not Needed For Cataract Op

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have "night" cataracts that must eventually be removed. Should this be done now or later?—MRS. A. J.

Some diseases must be treated as soon as they are discovered, and the sooner they are removed, the better the chance of complete cure. Cataract is one of these.

With some others it doesn't much matter whether you notice them early or late—and cataracts are a good example.

Some people with cataracts wait until they are barely seen. Then they have them removed successfully. Others have them removed early; these usually are people who have to use their eyes a great deal for fine detail work.

The result is the same in either case. Waiting, within reason, isn't going to do any harm, except that while the operation is postponed, loss of eyesight is prolonged.

Since yours were discovered early, and are "slight," and don't bother you seriously now, just use your eyes as long as they will serve.

You'll need glasses afterward because the operation means removal of the lens which is built into the eye.

You'll have to allow some days for rest and recuperation, and having glasses fitted, but you'll then be able to see all right. It may be, and this is usually the case, that you'll have one cataract removed while the other is still of some use to you. And then you'll have the other one operated.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is flatulence a subject that doctors won't discuss?

Barely the medical profession can prescribe at least relief, if not cure—either digestion tablets or baking soda is effective with me.—M.D.

The average doctor (and I include me) isn't too happy about trying to offer a quick, easy remedy for flatulence. Or let's use a simpler word: Gas. The answer for some people is so simple that they can't believe it. Don't swallow air. Baffle do it. That's why we burp them. Some adults unconsciously acquire the habit of swallowing air. Then they burp.

They tend to swallow air in quantity as they eat or drink. This can be overcome by eating and drinking slowly, and never gulping. There is no pill, and no medicine that will prevent air swallowing.

Where more serious underlying causes contribute, there will be other signs: Ulcers, gastritis, gall bladder disease, heartburn and so on, will make themselves known. But professional diagnosis is important because these complaints require effective treatment. And to treat effectively, you have to be sure of the trouble.

Segregation Rears In UK

LONDON (CP) — Everybody at the busy little school in Southall is happy—except the parents.

Southall is an unprepossessing place on the western fringes of London. It has flourishing factories and endless rows of semi-detached, bow-fronted houses.

The only noteworthy aspect is that it has become the first of the middle-class suburban areas around London to feel the social effects of immigration from India and Pakistan.

The resettlement of some white residents at the influx of Asian workers has made itself felt with a demand that Beaconsfield primary school should be barred to immigrant children.

The situation reached such a pitch that Sir Edward Boyle, the minister of education, made a special trip to tell a meeting of angry parents that it would be "wrong and dangerous" to segregate students.

He appealed for reasonable co-operation. The "danger point" would be reached if classes contained more than one-third immigrant children.

A Canadian woman tourist, visiting relatives in Southall, came away with a sharp impression of neighborhood hostility toward the Asians.

"They say they have ruined the district," the tourist said. "They live a dozen to a room, they are frightfully dirty and they have no sanitary habits at all. They've only just got here and they don't know what things are all about, but they insist on having the vote."

There is little doubting the strength of adult feeling in the community of 45,000 people, of whom some 7,000 come from India, Pakistan or the West Indies.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Dec. 2, 1863 —

Napoleon Bonaparte was crowned emperor 159 years ago today—in 1804. He was only 35 years old when France, by a unanimous vote of the senate and a plebiscite, decided to return to a hereditary monarchy. At his coronation in Paris, he took the crown from the hands of Pope Pius VII and placed it on his own head. He was forced to abdicate 10 years later.

1863—The central building of the University of Ottawa was destroyed by fire.

1865—A dam burst in the Frelus area of southern France, claiming more than 300 lives.

Kilmer Oak Ends Life

(Chatham News)

The stately white oak that inspired Joyce Kilmer to write the poem "Trees" will soon be cut down.

Efforts of tree surgeons, Rutgers University officials, and sentimentalists have failed to preserve the gnarled oak, which stands enclosed by a small white fence on the Rutgers campus.

A committee headed by Prof. Richard West of Rutgers' forestry department has been named to chop down the oak and dispose of it in a way that befits its fame and beauty.

The tree, believed to be nearly 300 years old, has a branch spread of 114 feet and near-perfect symmetry.

Souvenirs may be made from the wood. "We thought about making special gavel with the poem inscribed on them—these would only be for presentation to visiting dignitaries," Professor West said.

Other ideas are to make desk sets and plaques, inscribed with the 12-line poem.

Second generation trees germinated from acorns this year and are about 15 inches high. When the young trees are old enough to be transplanted, a few will be taken to Washington and planted on the Capitol grounds and in parks throughout Washington. Permission to plant seedlings from the famed oak was granted in December, 1961, by the national capital parks and Capitol architect.

As a boy in New Brunswick, N.J., and as a student at Rutgers in 1905-06, Kilmer, legend has it, used to sit under the huge tree.

Kilmer was killed in World War I. The poem was first published in 1913 in a poetry magazine.

Reward For Right Attitude

(Chilliwack Progress)

St. Mary's PTA is to be congratulated for deciding to reward children for one of the least practised virtues in modern society... common courtesy.

The group has devised a system whereby the most courteous students are given prizes.

Ideally, of course, we ought not to expect recompense for every good thing we do. But if we are going to give rewards at all, it is not a bad idea to encourage good character traits.

Schools, when they do this, are at least doing something to counter the pressures of modern life which too often reward the sharp operator, and make virtue of a mug's game.

In Passing

A contributor to a column says he can't understand how the 1964 compact cars can be bigger on the inside than on the outside. It does seem that by now he should have learned that car manufacturers annually perform miracles.

Nature greatly blessed man with a dexterous hand with opposable thumb, but it offset a great deal of this advantage by designing him so that he can sit comfortably.

A lot is being predicted as to space travel, but it will probably be a century or two before people are living on the moon and commuting to earth to hold jobs here.

That stuff about obeying ought to be struck out of the marriage ceremony, to keep the bride from lying.

People would make more progress if they weren't built so that it's so comfortable for them to sit.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Sir: Your editorial of Nov. 28, 1963 "The Law of the Gun. Will It Rule?" was a bright spot of sanity in a world of hysteria.

There were sullen silent cheers from Birchall Texas when John Kennedy was shot down and they were loud laughing cheers from Yankee America when Lee Oswald slumped with a bullet in his guts. And then the Dallas Chief of Police stated to the world with a sigh of relief "the case is closed."

The greatest emotional Show on Earth is now over and T.V. viewers can once again wallow in their wonderful world of American sentimentality and glorified brutality.

American indifference to law and order, whether it be a lynching, a bomb in a Sunday School or a few bullets in Dallas can only lead to the law of the jungle. Not only in the United States, but by her example, in international affairs.

"Dallas, Texas, the United States, the world should be ashamed." Yes indeed they all should be. Is shame enough? Is there not some constructive step that could be taken by Dallas, Texas, the United States and the World to check this law of the gun?

The world should rally round Dallas, Texas, the United States and help them solve their emotional problems. Many countries could lend moral understanding to America, so rich in dollars and yet almost bankrupt in human values.

Sir, I am not minimizing the wickedness of assassination. It was a lousy thing to do.

I should like to close with an excerpt from your excellent editorial "The Law of the Gun, Will We Let It Rule?"

"The men who held the guns are not the most important aspect of this inhuman behavior. It is the state of mind that would allow actions of this type to take place."

Yours truly,
ROBERT BOWEN-COLTHURST

LITTLE ABOUT HIM NOTICEABLE

Oswald Just Another Face

There was little about Lee Harvey Oswald to warn the world of what was coming.

To those few who knew him he was recalled, if at all, as sometimes eccentric but just another face in the crowd.

Some were aware he'd once left his homeland for Russia. Some saw occasional flashes of his seething contempt for the society that had nurtured him.

A marine or two recalled Oswald's expertise with a rifle. His wife knew that he'd bought a rifle. Other people knew Oswald worked in a building by which President Kennedy would pass. At least one knew Lee Harvey Oswald had shown up on the job Friday carrying a long package wrapped in brown paper.

But no one knew all of these things.

There was no one in Dallas—or anywhere else—to put all the pieces of Lee Harvey Oswald suddenly into place and cry out in warning: "Assassinate!"

But before it could be learned what impelled Oswald to shoot President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Oswald himself was dead.

LIVELY BOY

Oswald was a poor boy. His father died before Oswald was born Oct. 18, 1939, in New Orleans. His mother, Marguerite, who had two other sons, tried to make ends meet working in shops. The family moved frequently.

In Grade 4 at a suburban Fort Worth school, Oswald was remembered by his principal, Mrs. N. M. Merrett, as "kind of amily, a boy with curly hair... very lively."

His report card showed an A for citizenship. But he had only a grade of 4 in a standardized achievement test. The normal was 4.5.

In Grade 5 he did even worse. In Grade 6 he scored 7.4 against a normal mark of 6.5, but his citizenship mark had dropped to a 3.

And his teacher that year, Mrs. Howard L. Green, remembered he was something of a troublemaker. Nothing really bad, just troublesome.

While he was 13 and 14 his family lived in New York City. The report card had become less promising. General grades:

Barely passing. Dependability, co-operation and self-control: Unsatisfactory.

Back to New Orleans where classmates at Beauregard Junior High remembered Oswald as a loner, always getting into fights. But when he advanced to high school, he scored way above average in vocabulary and reading. And what was this solitary, belligerent boy of 15 reading? Karl Marx.

JOINED MARINES

He said later he became interested in Marxism after reading a pamphlet a lady handed him about Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, executed Communists spies.

At 17 he enlisted in the U.S. marines.

After Oswald was sent to Japan in July, 1957, he was court-martialed twice, once for having an unregistered pistol (the lost his private first class stripe for that) and another time for using profanity to a non-com.

Despite his almost constant smile, Oswald was a "real aggravator," recalled Peter Connor, an apprentice ironworker in West Haven, Conn., who served with him overseas. He had a hot temper, was personally sloppy, determined, and still a loner.

After he got back to the States in 1958 Oswald asked to be discharged so he could support his mother. A month later—in October, 1959—he was in Moscow.

"I've made up my mind, I'm through," he said and applied for Russian citizenship. His tour in the Orient had been an eye-opener, he said. He'd seen Americans teaching Nationalist Chinese to use guns. He thought stationing American troops in Japan was imperialistic.

"Capitalism has passed its peak," he told a reporter. "I've seen poor niggers... and that was a lesson. People hate because they've been told to hate. It's the fashion to hate people in the United States."

MIXED HOMELAND

The Soviet government wouldn't grant him citizenship, but he was allowed to remain as an alien resident. He drifted into factory work in Minsk where he eventually married a Russian pharmacist, Marina Nicholaeva.

Communism was fine but he missed his homeland. Meanwhile, however, the marine corps had learned of his trip to Russia and had given him an undesirable discharge. Angriely he wrote a letter to the secretary of the navy.

"I shall employ all means to right this gross mistake or injustice to a bonified U.S. citizen and ex-serviceman."

The secretary of the navy who received that letter was John B. Connally Jr., who, as governor of Texas, was wounded by the assassin's bullets last Friday.

Finally, in May, 1962, the U.S. state department, explaining that Oswald had not expatriated himself, issued him a passport to come home. The Moscow embassy gave him $435.71 for the trip and that June Oswald, his pretty blonde wife, and their baby daughter arrived in New York. (The loan was repaid by the following January).

Oswald moved about—New Orleans, Dallas, Fort Worth—working at odd jobs, reading, keeping to himself.

A neighbor in New Orleans, A. P. Eames, said Oswald was always coming home with armfuls of library books. He was very arrogant, Eames said, "in that he would not greet you or make any attempt to be congenial or neighborly."

PRO CASTRO SIGNS

Oswald's landlady in New Orleans, Mrs. Lena Garraer, agreed. "When he passed me or my husband in the yard, he wouldn't say anything. He just kept walking with his head down."

She told him twice to take down pro-Castro signs he'd plastered on the porch. He did. Oswald claimed to be secretary of the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee but that group said it didn't even have a chapter in Louisiana.

Last June Oswald was granted a passport after he said he wanted to roam Russia, Poland and Western Europe as a photographer. But he never went. Instead he sent his wife, pregnant again, to Irving, Tex., to live with a Quaker friend, Mrs. Michael R. Paine. Oswald sneaked out later, owing Mrs. Garner 15 days rent.

Mrs. Paine was one of the few people who have said they were friends of the Oswalds.

"Lee was out of a job. He had a pregnant wife and child, that's why I brought them to my home," Mrs. Paine said. "Lee was a good family man. He loved his family, his kids. He was just a father here."

Mrs. Paine's husband, an engineer, didn't see it that way.

TALKED MARXISM

Oswald talked Marxism, Marxism, Marxism.

"Oswald refused to eschew violence as a method for achieving desired ends."

Violence? But how? Against whom? For what ends?

The world knows now the answer to the first two questions. Not the third.

The how was a 6.5-millimetre Italian carbine with scope Oswald bought for $10.95 from a Chicago sporting goods firm. Just when he chose the target of his wrath is not known but it was announced last September that Kennedy would be coming to Dallas. Soon afterward, Oswald heard a friend of Mrs. Paine's talking about a job opening at the Texas School Book Depository Building in Dallas.

It paid only $50 a week but Oswald said he'd room in Dallas and visit his family weekends. (His wife had just had another daughter.)

Then, last Thursday, Oswald changed his pattern. He went out to the Paines to spend the night with his family.

The next morning he was off to work and Mrs. Paine paid scant attention to a blanket in the spare room. Oswald didn't speak English. Maybe that's why she never told anyone she thought she'd seen a gun wrapped in the blanket.

But even if she had, were there sufficient danger signs in the life of Lee Harvey Oswald to have warned anyone astute enough to see enough of them?

Maybe now, in hindsight, there were. But, the morning of Nov. 22, no one saw enough of them.

More Than 100 Fans Watch Grey Cup At Kelowna Club

More than 100 football fans passed through the Gold Post, which marked the two doorways leading from the entrance hall into the lounge of the Kelowna Club on Saturday. The goal posts which were wound, one with orange and black and one with yellow and black, were topped with football helmets, and centering the small table between the doorways was a beautiful arrangement of yellow and orange chrysanthemums. Inside the lounge the lights were shaded with orange and black streamers and even the animal heads wore the Lions' colors. Prior to the game a most delicious buffet luncheon was set out on the speaker tables which were centered with large bowls of yellow and red chrysanthemums, and most of the fans arrived early to watch the game and enjoy the luncheon. Many of the ladies wore garlands tied with orange and black ribbons and a number of

ANN LANDERS

Spell Out Feelings Instead Of Leaving

Dear Ann Landers: Why is society so merciless to the middle-aged husband who leaves his nagging, selfish, over-weight wife to enjoy the company of some pleasant woman who has the sense to praise him occasionally and makes him feel like a man?

How could his business colleagues honor him with a dinner when he leaves his socks on the floor, blows his nose too hard and forgets to pick up the dry cleaning? Such a man, of course, is not worthy of affection. A pat on the arm in public will help get across the idea to friends that they are a devoted couple. But if he wants more than a peck on the cheek when they get home she says, "At our age? You must be a sex maniac!"

Millions of husbands would probably take a powder tomorrow if they didn't fear the label of "heel" for walking out and leaving "the poor thing" with the children, the house, the car, and the bank account. Me—I just left.—COLOR ME GONE

Dear Friend: There's no point in trying to reach you since you are already gone. But to other husbands who feel as you do, I'd like to suggest that you spell out your feelings, frankly and promptly, not to ME but to your wife—or should I color you yellow?

Dear Ann Landers: I've never written a letter to a newspaper in all my life, but I simply must comment on the letter from the woman who signed herself, "Top Notch Secretary". In my opinion she is a Top-Notch Trouble-maker who has, I suspect, some time beyond a professional interest in her boss.

I, too, work for a "terrific guy" but he is married and has a family, which means he's off limits so far as I am concerned. I don't care if his wife phones him 30 times a day. If he calls, I'll tell him I'll call her. Furthermore, her presence in the office is of no concern to me. She can pitch a tent in the reception room. I couldn't care less.

A top-notch secretary knows what to keep her nose out of. And at the head of that list is Family Matters.—PEACE IT'S WONDERFUL

Dear Wonderful: Thank you for an astute observation. You'd make an excellent member for my recently formed "Mind Your Own Business Club". Welcome to the fold.

Dear Ann Landers: You have dealt repeatedly with the problem of friends and relatives who insist on visiting the sick in hospitals—but one more time won't hurt. I'm a nurse who recently had surgery so I now understand this problem from all angles.

Some hospitalized folks enjoy visitors. It's good for their morale. These people are the aged, the handicapped, children who must be confined for long periods of time, and fracture cases on the mend. Unfortunately, they are not the ones who get the company.

Usually the woman who had a baby this morning or the man who had a coronary last night get the long line of visitors.

When I was a hospital patient I entertained more guests in my room than I ever entertained at home. I was happy to check out of the hospital so I could get some rest.

Please, Ann, say it again. Do your hospitalized friends and relatives a favor and leave them alone unless they send for you.—R.N. OF PA.

Dear R.N.: I am happy to say it again. "Do your hospitalized friends and relatives a favor and leave them alone unless they send for you."

British Bill Will Protect Housewives

LONDON (CP)—A bill giving housewives time to think again after signing installment-plan contracts was introduced in Parliament Thursday.

The bill, which will probably become law sometime in the new year, also protects innocent purchasers of secondhand cars who later discover the vehicle is really owned by a financing company.

The bill could well be the most popular piece of legislation in the coming session. Consumer protection is becoming increasingly important in affluent Britain where the abuses of high-pressure salesmanship are beginning to make themselves felt.

Under the new bill there will be a "cooling-off" period of four days during which the purchaser can decide whether to keep the product. If he decides not to, the company must take the product back.

Gridiron Club Enjoys Game

Thirty-seven members of the Royal Anne Gridiron Club gathered around the End Zone Saturday watching Carmen Woods entertain with his dancing doll as Roy Stoltz accompanied the doll on the accordion, prior to the Grey Cup game channelled into the Aberdeen Room on six portable television sets.

The room featured the banners of each team in the Canadian Football League, and a life-size backdrop of a typical football fan in racoon coat et al.

Members were treated to a smorgasbord luncheon and at half-time were entertained by the Backfield Four quartet made up of Joe Keenan, Bob Hall, Walter Gray and Doug Johnson. Throughout festivities gifts donated by various individuals were given away.

Canada's first women doctor, Emily Howard Stowe, was admitted to practise in Ontario in 1880.

OBITUARY

ENDERBY (Correspondent) — Funeral services were held Nov. 28 in St. Andrew's United Church for Arthur William Dill, a long-time Enderby resident. Rev. Thomas O. Mercer officiated and burial was in the Enderby cemetery.

Born in Bracebridge, Ont., in 1880, Mr. Dill received his education in Toronto and California. He served overseas in the First World War and in 1919 came to Enderby to join his brother Edward Dill in operating a store. His brother predeceased him several years ago, but Mr. Dill continued to manage the business until his retirement in 1956. He is survived by his wife, Edna, and a son, Bert, in Burnaby, a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Fisher, of Los Angeles, Calif. Pallbearers were Messrs. H. Logan, J. Dugdale, Charles Danard, Ed Coulter, Arnold Campbell and Harry Lister. Military honors were accorded Mr. Dill at the graveside.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

John Howard Society Protests Jail Conditions

At this time of year attention is focused on the personnel of the city council and school board, says the Vernon John Howard Society in a letter to the editor.

The letter continues: Some members are retiring, some have been nominated as candidates for election. We have our stewardship meeting and election gatherings at which the candidates speak and outline their platforms and plans and visions for a new year program of thought and action. In other words, we are civic-minded.

"Therefore, we are called upon to think of the problems of tourism and town planning, of road building and sewage structures. These are quite important, but let us not forget the human problems, the value of persons, of children and the aged, of the good and the bad. "A very grave and alarming challenge faces us today in Vernon and the wider community—an adequate administration building to provide proper accommodation for our police force, a magistrate's court, a family court, a juvenile court as well as humane detention for those who must be confined in jails, both for adults and for delinquent boys and girls when found necessary. The present facilities are quite inadequate. The court house was built in 1911 and there was an office for two or three constables, and a few prisoners. The inmates cooked their own meals. The amount of space is the same today, but now we have 10 constables for the city and four or five for the district. We owe a great debt to these men who guard our businesses and our homes and our persons, even at the risk of their own lives. They are a grand force! They deserve a better deal, even from the standpoint of efficiency.

The cells are medieval. One of the cells in which at times even juveniles have been placed is like "The Black Hole of Calcutta." It is not necessary for you to commit a crime to enter it; ask the staff sergeant and I'm sure he will show it to you, no windows, no tap water, no toilet; the door cannot be left open for it opens up at the general office desk. Go up and see it some time.

We believe plans are now under survey by the present council, but we hope it is not a mirage. Kelowna has erected a suitable building; Vernon can do it also. It is an absolutely necessary project for our citizens now. Let's do it now.

ANOTHER ISSUE
Should we as citizens ask our elected representatives for leadership in giving a grand design to our community life. Are we interested in parking meters and fire engines, in business and recreation, in music and art, but not in child welfare and mental health, in delinquency prevention and correction, in marital counselling and guidance services. Or do we think these are the responsibility of others?

Okanagan Cattle And Sheep May Miss Out On Minerals

VERNON (Staff)—Local agriculturists studying trace minerals have noted, "cattle and sheep receiving most of their forage from valley bottom soils in south-central B.C. may be deficient in some of the trace minerals. In fact, some herds are showing obvious deficiencies and have responded well to treatment."

This was the general theme of a meeting of research and extension agriculturists and veterinarians held in Vernon last week. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the mineral nutrition of livestock in south-central B.C. after hearing research reports from Dr. J. Millmore and Dr. J. Mason of the Summerland research station. It was agreed to invite farmers suspecting trace mineral deficiencies to report them to the district agriculturists in order further checks can be made, said J. C. Ryder, district agriculturist, Vernon.

"The minerals copper, molybdenum, manganese and selenium are of particular interest," he said. "Although needed in only minute quantities by livestock they are necessary for normal growth and reproduction. A complicating factor is the inter-relationship between them. As an example, an excess of molybdenum in the forage causes copper to be excreted from the animal with the result that a copper deficiency occurs. This situation would be further aggravated if the forage contained very high levels of sulphur. "Copper deficiency in sheep and cattle can cause scouring, bleaching of the hair coat, and general unthriftiness," said Mr. Ryder. "A deficiency of selenium has been shown to result in a heavy calf and lamb mortality and lack of vigor."

Senior League—Age 18-19 years

WIN SCHOLARSHIP
ENDERBY (Correspondent)—Miss Ruth Towers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Towers, has been awarded a fellowship scholarship and service award amounting to $500, from the Alma Van Dusen Fund of Vancouver Foundation No. 3. Miss Towers is a student at the University of British Columbia. The award is given to good students who are working towards a university degree.

STUCK BY TRAIN
SQUAMISH (CP) — Donald Young, 34, suffered serious injuries Sunday when a car stalled on a Pacific Great Eastern Railway crossing near here and was struck by a train. His brother, Monty, and a nephew Ken, who were also in the car, got out to push it when it stalled. They escaped injury.

ANNOUNCING A NEW SERVICE

NOW AVAILABLE THROUGH

CANADIAN IMPERIAL BANK OF COMMERCE

FIRST MORTGAGE LOANS

FROM KINROSS MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Now first mortgage loans are available from Kinross Mortgage Corporation through any of the 1250 branches of the Commerce from coast to coast. This exclusive service from the Commerce will apply to mortgages on residential, apartment, commercial and industrial properties. The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce is the sole agent for Kinross Mortgage Corporation, a company incorporated by the Parliament of Canada under the Loan Companies Act.

For Canadians, it means greater convenience than ever before in obtaining mortgage financing. Whether or not you are presently a Commerce customer, your application can now be made quickly and conveniently through a man you already know—the Manager of your local Commerce branch. And you have the added convenience of arranging automatic mortgage payments from a Commerce account at no extra charge.

Whether you are considering a mortgage loan for the present or for the future, you will probably have questions about this valuable new Commerce service. You'll find most of the answers about home mortgages below. For further details—and for full information on apartment, commercial and industrial mortgages—your local Commerce Branch Manager is at your service.

What kind of mortgage loan is available?
Conventional first mortgage loans are available. The Company does not at present make NHA mortgage loans nor does it make second mortgage loans.

Who may apply?
Anyone who has a good equity in a house now owned or being purchased and has a regular income sufficient to enable him to meet the mortgage payments comfortably.

Where do you apply?
Your application may be made at any branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

What kind of property should you have?
Your house should be in a good location, well built, maintained in good condition, with suitable foundations and central heating. Loans are not made on vacant land.

How large a mortgage can you get?
Mortgage loans will be considered up to two-thirds of the appraised value or the purchase price of the property. Loans are not made for amounts smaller than $3,000.

What rate of interest do you pay?
You pay the prevailing rate for conventional mortgages in your locality at the time the loan is approved.

What other charges are there?
Only legal expenses and, if required, valuator's fees are payable by you. You are not charged any premium or commission.

How long a term will the mortgage have?
The preferred term is 10-15 years but loans may be made for any term from a minimum of three years up to twenty years. If you think a longer term would be justified in your case, please feel free to discuss your proposal with your Commerce Manager.

How do you repay the loan?
You repay in equal monthly payments which include principal, interest and an appropriate proportion of the annual property taxes. Payments are due on the first of each month. You can arrange to have the mortgage payments charged automatically to your account at any branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. There is no charge for this service.

How do you keep track of the balance owing?
Every year you are mailed a schedule showing the breakdown of each monthly payment into principal, interest and taxes, and the balance of principal remaining unpaid after each instalment.

Complete mortgage information is now available through the manager of your local Commerce branch.

Air Tragedy Recalled 1956 When Plane Hit BC Mountain

TORONTO (CP)—The crash of a Trans-Canada Air Line plane at St. Therese de Blainville, Que., on the eve of the Grey Cup football classic recalls another Canadian crash that had a football connection.

On Dec. 9, 1956, a TCA plane left Vancouver for Calgary. On board were five football players who had taken part in the annual East-West Shrine all-star game at Vancouver the day before. 58 other passengers and a crew of three.

The four-engine North Star left Vancouver, turned back over the mountains during a furious thunderstorm after one engine was shut down because of a fire warning, then disappeared from radar scopes.

No trace of the plane was found until the following May 12. A group of amateur climbers found it scattered around the impact point at the top of Mount Slesse, 75 miles west of Vancouver near the Trans-Canada Highway.

Saskatchewan Roughriders lost four players in the crash. Two were Canadians—Ray Sykes of Regina, and Gord Sturtridge of Winnipeg.

Joseph C. King, sales manager with International Business Machines of Toronto, also was aboard. He started with University of Western Ontario Mustangs until his graduation from the London, Ont., school in 1941. He was a top hockey player as well.

Soviet Test Plan Rapped In Japan

TOKYO (Reuters)—A foreign office official has protested to the Soviet Embassy here against Russia's plan to resume testing space rockets over the Pacific Monday, Kyodo News agency reported. Russia announced Friday it planned to test new, improved versions of space-vehicle launching rockets in the Pacific until Jan. 20.

PLAYED IN U.S.

Mario DeMarco, who had played formerly with Detroit Lions of the National Football League, and Mel Beckert, an Indiana University graduate, were the other Saskatchewan players.

Calvin Jones, 1955 All-American guard from Iowa, who had boarded the plane at the last minute after a late arrival at Vancouver Airport, also was killed. He had played for the West in the Shrine game.

It was not considered likely Arab Nationalist party and a that many if any of the 118 passengers were Haskitts. Those in sons aboard the Montreal-Toronto flight that crashed Friday.

STOPS LEGAL ACTION

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—King Hussein has ordered the suspension of legal proceedings against persons to marry the minute after a late arrival at Vancouver Airport, also was killed. He had played for the West in the Shrine game.

The bidding:
East South West North
1♠ 1♠ 1NT 2♠
3♠ 3♠

Opening lead four of clubs. This deal occurred in the match between Great Britain and the United States during the World Olympiad staged in Turin in 1950. It proved to be an extensive hand for the American team.

At the first table, the American North-South pair arrived at three spades on the bidding shown and went down one against good defense.

Reese led a club. Schapiro won with the king and returned a trump. Declarer finessed and lost to the king. Reese now made the killing play—the queen of hearts—and South had to go down one. Declarer went up with the king but eventually had to lose a club and two hearts.

At the second table, with Britain now North-South, the bidding was more spirited. It went:

East South West North
1♠ 1♠ 1NT 2♠
3♠ 3♠ 3♠ 3♠
4♠ 4♠ 4♠ 4♠

Apparently, South (Swamer) was bounding out game possibilities with his bid of three hearts. When this was doubled, he ran to three spades, which also got doubled.

The American West led a low diamond. Declarer ruffed and played the nine of clubs, taken by the king. East returned a trump, which was more or less the same play as the British East at the first table had made.

But the declarer at this table took advantage of the lapse in heart return would have forced the queen out by forcing the king out of dummy. Swamer refused to finesse the spade, going up with the ace. He then played the queen of clubs and discarded a heart from dummy.

East took the ace, but the defense was now helpless. Swamer lost, all told, a spade, a heart and two clubs, and made three spades doubled to give the British a net gain on the deal of 830 points.

Both Easts erred in the play, but only the British declarer capitalized on the opportunity.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
Another day in which you will fare better at routine tasks than you will at new enterprises—with one exception: new ideas or methods for simplifying the aforesaid routine should work out well; also relieve monotony. The evening calls for tact in personal relationships.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that the next year will be one of the best you have had in a long time, and that you should, therefore, capitalize on every available opportunity if you would gain all the benefits possible, not only between now and December of next year, but even later when secondary results of present efforts will become still more evident. Your best months, within the next 12—for both job and financial interests—will be the current one, January, May, August, October and November. Do not extraneous toward the middle of the month, however; also in April.

You can look forward to happiness in personal relationships, too—especially if you try to avoid friction during February and April, when those about you may be under some stress. On other fronts: best months for romance: February, April, June and August; for travel: January, April, July and September; for stimulating social experiences: the period between now and mid-January; also mid-1964. A child born on this day will be highly intelligent, original in his thinking and extremely sensitive.

Cuba Plans To Be Ready For "Yankee Aggression"

Raul Castro, Cuban armed forces minister, said today that Cuba is ready to meet any "Yankee aggression" with all the resources of the country.

A. C. Desbriay, former chief justice of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, died in Vancouver Saturday. He was 75. He had been suffering from a heart attack and died less than 12 hours later. Mr. Desbriay was 75, his wife 70.

Princess Grace of Monaco arrived in Philadelphia Sunday for a week's visit. She said she plans to visit the late President John F. Kennedy's grave in Washington this week. Princess Grace said she also hopes to pay a condolence call on the president's widow.

James (Jimmy) Math, 66, that important negotiations are going on with France about a new treaty for a state of affairs in Algeria. The treaty is expected to be signed in the near future.

The turbulent zone inhabited by NAGA tribesmen in eastern India became the country's 18th state Sunday. President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan came from New Delhi to inaugurate the new state and welcome it to "the common family."

OTTAWA TALKS CLOSE FOR TIME Closer Ties Said In Doubt

OTTAWA (CP)—Did the federal-provincial conference move Canada any closer to co-operative federalism? Western premiers, heading home at the end of the conference, appeared to feel the direction was right but there were some reservations about the pace.

"We came here with the hope of clothing the idea of co-operative federalism in flesh and blood," said Premier Roblin of Manitoba. "We hoped to arrive at what you might call a better modus vivendi."

The conference, he said, did not quite come to grips with the problem as a whole but would have been a step in the right direction.

A priority item at the next meeting, he said, should be to pinpoint the "areas of friction" and dig for solutions one by one.

FAVORS MORE TALKS Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan, who was equally emphatic in his view that more consultation between the two levels of government is necessary, felt a good "initial step" had been taken.

"There was wide acceptance of the necessity of regular and organized consultation," said the CCF leader.

All the Westerners had pressed the same point to varying degrees—that while the constitution is sound, a century of growth has produced changes in provincial functions never visualized by the founding fathers; that the machinery, rather than the basic structure, needs streamlining; and that Canada cannot be held together as a nation without firm recognition that a province's income is no standard of its contribution to the national wealth.

What of the "crisis of Confederation" predictions before the conference? "There was no crisis," said Mr. Lloyd. "Everything indicates things were not as bad as some suggested."

Financially, the premiers did not go home with all they had asked although all will have a little more cash pouring into their provincial treasuries in the next fiscal year.

LLOYD IS ANNOYED Mr. Lloyd was particularly annoyed at Ottawa's "multilateral" of the conference, claiming the conference had been "misled" by the federal Liberals into expecting something better.

Premier Manning of Alberta didn't like the formula either, but dismissed it as irrelevant beside his Social Credit government's contention that the chief point at issue is deficit spending by all levels of government.

He could take some satisfaction that his arguments, which a conference spokesman described as articulate and persuasive, appeared to impress the delegates.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia, beaming from start to finish, regaled reporters with such cracks as "Phil Gagliardi build all the roads in Saskatchewan on a Sunday afternoon." He didn't land at Toronto until after midnight. They took a bus to Hamilton.

FANS KEEP ACTIVE While waiting in the 20-degree weather, the fans kept active by honking horns, blowing bugles, dancing in the streets, throwing confetti and shouting "Tiger-Cats cheer."

Speaking for the players, quarterback Bernie Faloney said: "What a great town to play football in."

Jake Gaudaur, president and general manager, said: "We were able to bring the Grey Cup to Hamilton for three reasons—we had the best coach, we had the best team and we had the best city and fans."
